Financial Markets Daily

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

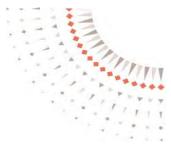

- Negative stock markets, USD down and government bond yields higher, assimilating the Fed's 75pb hike yesterday (the largest since 1994) and a hawkish bias suggesting greater tightening forward to shovel the worst inflation in four decades, but with rising recession fears
- On the monetary policy front, the Bank of England hiked its reference rate by 25bp to 1.25%. The decision was not unanimous, with 6 of the 9 members voting in favor and 3 supporting a more aggressive 50bp hike. With this, the rate reaches its highest level in 13 years. The UK is experiencing its highest inflation in 40 years and the central bank expects inflation to rise above 10% later this year
- For its part, the Swiss National Bank surprised after it increased its interest rate by 50bp and for the first time in 15 years, from -0.75% to -0.25%, joining other central banks in tightening monetary policy to fight inflation
- Later, there will also be a monetary policy decision in Japan, where it is estimated that it will keep its reference rate unchanged
- Gas prices soared again in Europe after the flow from Russia to the continent slowed down, with benchmark futures rising 24% after a 46% rise earlier this week. This situation raises concerns that countries will have to ration their consumption, which in turn would impact economic activity
- Regarding economic figures, the Philly Fed manufacturing index will be published in the US, which we estimate will grow to 4.0pts from 2.6pts in the previous month. In addition, jobless claims for the week ending June 11 will be posted

Document for distribution among public

Equities

- Stock markets with negative sentiment, in which technology companies are among the biggest decliners globally, while investors reflect concerns about a tighter monetary policy from various central banks that increase the odds of an economic recession, given the high inflation environment
- Futures in the US anticipate a negative opening with the major indices trading on average 2.4% below their theoretical value. In the same sense, Europe trades with falls, the Eurostoxx adjusts 2.5%, with the largest corrections in the technology and materials sectors. In turn, Asia closed mixed, following up the stock markets movements during the previous session, with the Hang Seng dropping 2.2% and the Nikkei increasing 0.4%
- In Mexico, the Mexbol Index could be trading below the 48,000pts, following it's international peer's behavior

Sovereign fixed income, currencies and commodities

- Sovereign bonds resumed losses, with European assets adjusting up to +18bps.
 While the US Treasury curve registered losses of 14bps, on average, just after yesterday's rally. Yesterday, the Mbonos curve registered gains of 6bps, on average, concentrated in the belly and the long-end
- The dollar strengthens amid negative performance in developed currencies with NOK (-1.1%) as the weakest, while safe-haven currencies CHF and JPY are the only ones with gains. In emerging markets, the bias is also negative with PLN (-1.7%) and KRW (+0.3%) at the extremes. The Mexican peso depreciates 1.8% to 20.61 after gaining 1.6% yesterday
- Crude-oil declined as investors weighed Fed interest rate hike and US production increase. Mixed performance in industrial metals and negative for precious, with gold trading around 1,820 $/oz t (-0.7%)

Corporate Debt

- S&P Global Ratings confirmed Grupo Radio Centro's ratings at 'mxCC' and removed them from its Negative CreditWatch list. The outlook is Negative. The coupon payment of issuance RCENTRO 16 was paid on time, so the company avoided a payment default
- HR Ratings assigned an 'HR A' rating to Grupo Vasconia's sustainabilitylinked bond, VASCONI 22L. The ratings were based on the refinancing and change in the maturity profile of MXN 800 million as a result of this issuance
- S&P Global Ratings assigned an 'mxAAA (sf)' rating to issuance ECREDCB 22, backed by a consumer loans portfolio originated by Exitus Credit and Crediconfía

Guide for investment recommendations.

| | Reference |
|------|---|
| BUY | When the share expected performance is greater than the MEXBOL estimated performance. |
| HOLD | When the share expected performance is similar to the MEXBOL estimated performance. |
| SELL | When the share expected performance is lower than the MEXBOL estimated performance. |

Even though this document offers a general criterion of investment, we urge readers to seek advice from their own Consultants or Financial Advisors, in order to consider whether any of the values mentioned in this report are in line with their investment goals, risk and financial position.

Determination of Target Prices

For the calculation of estimated target prices for securities, analysts use a combination of methodologies generally accepted among financial analysts, including, but not limited to, multiples analysis, discounted cash flows, sum-of-the-parts or any other method that could be applicable in each specific case according to the current regulation. No guarantee can be given that the target prices calculated for the securities will be achieved by the analysts of Grupo Financiero Banorte S.A.B. C.V, since this depends on a large number of various endogenous and exogenous factors that affect the performance of the issuing company, the environment in which it performs, along with the influence of trends of the stock market, in which it is listed. Moreover, the investor must consider that the price of the securities or instruments can fluctuate against their interest and cause the partial and even total loss of the invested capital.
