Financial Markets Daily

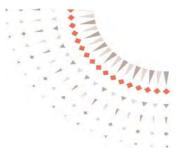

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

- Stock markets positive, government bond yields also positive and USD lower, after signs from China where authorities are trying to ease the impact of COVID-zero policy, and reacting to good results in the US employment report and its implications for monetary policy
- October's employment report in the US showed a creation of 261 thousand jobs, with the unemployment rate at 3.7%, surprising to the upside. This result supports our view that tightening by the Fed will continue
- In other economic figures, in the Eurozone the final data for October's PMIs was released –not showing significant changes relative to the preliminary figures—, remaining in contraction territory
- Christine Lagarde reaffirmed her commitment to continue monetary tightening in the Eurozone, underlining that "we must not allow high levels of inflation to take root" and "we are committed to bringing inflation down to our mediumterm target, and we are determined to take the necessary steps to do so"
- Global food prices hit a nine-month low in October, according to the FAO index. The reasons include a slowdown in global demand for commodities and good weather, offsetting some negative factors
- In China, President Xi Jinping received German Chancellor Olaf Scholz. The meeting focused on trade issues between the two nations and human rights.
 According to statements, the visit could increase mutual trust, in addition to making progress in terms of COVID-19 vaccines and the purchase of Airbus aircraft
