Financial Markets Daily

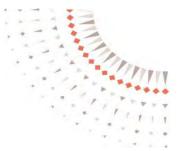

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

- Stocks markets negative, government bond yields mixed and USD to the downside, with caution ahead of the US labor market report, looking for clues on the economy's health and prospects for less aggressive tightening from Fed, though still unclear about the terminal rate and with recession concerns rising
- At the BIS meeting, Christine Lagarde pointed out that due to the exceptional uncertainty it is necessary for central banks to make monetary policy decisions that anchor inflation expectations and signal that inflation will be within its target in the medium-term. Meanwhile, PBoC Governor Yi Gang mentioned that his attention now is on boosting economic activity
- The Russian government announced that President Putin remains open to negotiations but has no plans to end the military occupation. The latter was after US President Biden pointed out the possibility of talks if the Russian President agrees to end the war. In the EU, discussions continue to reach an agreement to cap the price of Russian crude oil (US$60 per barrel), with Monday being the deadline to agree. Meanwhile, Poland and Baltic nations demand economic measures that put more pressure on Russia's revenues
- On data, we will focus on November's employment report in the US with consensus at +200k new jobs (Banorte: +190k), which would be its smallest increase since 2020. The unemployment rate is anticipated at 3.7%, unchanged. Finally, on the monetary policy front we will have comments from Evans (Chicago Fed) and Barkin (Richmond Fed)

Equities

- Negative bias in main stock indices, with great caution among investors, waiting for the non-farm payroll figures to be published in the US, looking for signals about the Fed's next moves and nervous about the impact that the scenario of higher rates will have on growth and profit generation
- Futures in the US anticipate a negative opening with the S&P500 trading 0.1% below its theoretical value. Meanwhile, the technology sector reflects concerns after companies such as Zscaler and Marvell Technology reported an unencouraging expectation. Similarly, the expectation of cuts in headcount in companies such as Amazon and Ford remain worrisome
- In Europe we see almost widespread, albeit moderate, gains as the Eurostoxx, shaping up for its seventh consecutive week of gains. Asia closed negative, highlighting the Nikkei's fall of 1.6%. In Mexico the Mexbol Index may continue consolidating around 51,500pts

Sovereign fixed income, currencies and commodities

- Sovereign bonds with mixed performance. European assets trade with gains of up to 4bps while the Treasury curve registers a slight steepening with gains of 3bps on the short-end and losses of 2bps on the long-end. Yesterday, the Mbonos' curve closed with gains of 14bps on average. The 10-year benchmark ended at 8.99% (-19bps)
- The dollar trades with a negative bias as developed and emerging currencies post mixed changes. In the first group, JPY (+0.9%) is the strongest and in the second group, ZAR (+1.5%) and CLP (-0.3%) are at the ends of the spectrum. The Mexican peso trades at 19.17 per dollar, equivalent to a 0.1% depreciation
- Crude-oil futures gain 0.5% as they await the EU decision on the ceiling to Russian imports, the OPEC+ decision, and signs of a reopening in China. In metals, negative performance prevails

Corporate Debt

- S&P Global Ratings decided to withdraw the ratings of the senior and hybrid debt bonds issued by Unifin Financiera, considering that it does not have sufficient information to keep its credit analysis updated. In its statement, the rating agency indicated that said measure was adopted as a result of the relevant event published by Unifin on November 28, 2022, where it reported that it will not publish financial information as of 3Q22
- HR Ratings affirmed Montepío's rating at 'HR AA+' and changed the outlook to Stable from Positive. According to the agency, the change in perspective is due to the fact that, although the pawnshop shows a constant generation of comprehensive remnants, it is expected to show lower levels in the next two years due to the expansion of branches carried out in 2022
