Financial Markets Daily

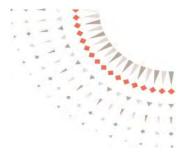

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

- Stock markets mixed and little changed, govt bond yields higher and USD biased lower. Markets consolidate after the strong impulse in risk assets seen since the start of the year, waiting for the release of earnings results and monetary policy decisions in a backdrop of lower market liquidity
- Specifically, US markets will be closed today in remembrance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day, so no data releases are slated in said country. Later, economic activity figures (Dec) and 4Q22 GDP in China
- Investors will be watching inflation for December in Germany, the Eurozone and UK, with producer prices of the same period in the US. Moreover, today kicks off the World Economic Forum with in-person meetings in Davos, Switzerland
- In the monetary policy front, decisions in Indonesia, Malaysia, Norway, and Turkey, as well as 1- and 5-year prime loan rates in China. In addition, we will analyze closely the plethora of speeches that will be made by Fed and ECB members
- In other events, there's only a Eurozone finance ministers meeting in Brussels and the Atlantic Council's Global Energy Forum 2023 in Abu Dhabi, as well as the release of the monthly reports from OPEC and IEA
- The US data agenda also includes retail sales, industrial production, existing home sales, building permits and housing starts (Dec), along with the manufacturing indicators Empire and Philly Fed (Jan)
- In Mexico, we will only know retail sales (Nov), the Timely Indicator of Economic Activity (Dec), and the banking sector survey

Equities

- Mixed movements in equity markets after last week's gains and as investors continue assessing the outlook for economic growth, inflation and corporate earnings. There will be no activity in the US due to the holiday, which might affect trading volumes in the other markets. Meanwhile, the flow of corporate reports will gradually increase, with 26 S&P500 companies slated to release their results this week
- Asian markets closed mixed. In Europe, most stocks advance and the Eurostoxx adds 0.1%. Shares from real estate and communication services sectors lead gains, while those from consumer discretionary and technology are the main laggards.
- In Mexico, following the Mexbol's closing at 53,577pts last Friday, we expect this week's trading range between 52,800 54,700pts

Sovereign fixed income, currencies and commodities

- US market closed today so lower liquidity is expected during the session. Europe bonds register a modest sell-off of 3bps on average. Last week, short- and midterm Mbonos printed a 9bps rally, while long-term tenors lost 5bps. The 10-year reference closed at 8.55% (-6bps)

 Meanwhile, copper and gold adjust lower

Corporate Debt

- HR Ratings affirmed the rating for Fovissste's mortgage-backed securities TFOVIS 14U / 14-2U and TFOVICB 15U at 'HR AAA' with Stable outlook. The ratification was based on the observed level of each issuance's excess collateral, which increased in the last twelve months, boosted by prepayments
- HR Ratings assigned a 'HR A-' rating to Grupo Hema's proposed issuance, GHEMA 23, with Positive outlook, based on the Free Cash Flow generation which they expect to reach MXN 194 million in 2025
- The proposed unsecured note GHEMA 23 is expected to be carried out for MXN 300 million (max. MXN 500 million) with a three-year term. Proceeds from the issuance will be used for the total amortization of Grupo Hema's outstanding bond GHEMA 18
