- On April 21st, Banco de México announced additional credit and liquidity measures to promote the orderly operation of financial markets, strengthen credit channels and provide liquidity to facilitate the optimal functioning of the financial system
- Particularly, the central bank announced the implementation of corporate bond repo transactions, with the goal of improving liquidity to the corporate bond market that, due to the conditions of uncertainty and volatility, has observed a significant drop in their operation and liquidity in the secondary market
- The total size of the facility is $100 billion (US$4.4 billion), however, only $100 million (US$4.4 million) has been assigned through this measure
- In order to promote operations with credit institutions that, in turn, fosters corporate debt issuance in the primary market and increase liquidity in the secondary market, Banxico has decided to make some adjustments to the aforementioned corporate bond repo transactions:
  1. The cost of the repo agreement will be reduced from 1.10 to 1.03x the average of Banco de México's overnight interbank interest rate
  2. The range of securities that can be subject to repo transactions is extended in order to include bonds issued by private banks under certain conditions
  3. The effective date of the measure is extended for bonds held by credit institutions and institutional investors that had acquired bonds issued between July 16th and December 31st, 2020: (a) acquired amount between 5 or 10% of issuance, or the equivalent of 75 million UDIS, whichever is less, until December 31st, 2021; and (b) higher amount of 10% of issuance or 75 million UDIS, whichever is less, until June 30th, 2023
- Repo transactions will be held under the same defined terms and conditions, including the maturity of up to 91 days, the credit rating criteria, as well as the guarantee administration process
- In this context, corporate bond repo operations will be suspended this week, with the next transaction programmed on Friday, July 24th
